

LANDSCAPE

by Michael Munro

Beard of Bees Press
Number 85 · April, 2012

to s.o.

landscape

sparse
sharp-

en-
ing:

drifts
salt-

up
winds

jogged
flood-

ranged:
some

um
sud-

me-
di-

den
sun-

ar-
rrayed

corrupt-

ed
sky:

light
to

ci-
phered

less
than

heat's
tex-

ular

ture:
gran-

whorls
turn

still-
born

hues
set

to
sur-

pass:
pal-

face
sur-

ette's
broken

tones

slow
un-

focused:

heat
di-

defunct

vides
from

light:
white-

ished
still-

dim-
in-

ness
em-

tied
of

tac-
it

stra-
ta

broached
a-

long
clos-

parched
o-

ure:
purged

pen:
en-

ter
on

arc
fol-

brush-
's

lowed
less-

er
scope

signal

all
but

near
wa-

breaking:

ter
col-

or dis-

dis-
tan-

til-
late

ti-
ate

up
on

MICHAEL MUNRO, as ever, thanks his family. He is the author of What is Philosophy? (punctum books, <http://punctumbooks.com/>, open-access, forthcoming 2012).

